THE WHIRLPOOL
1945

DEDICATION

Dedication

To those three, Earl Glass Jr., Harold Nason Jr., and James Russell, who have given their lives for their country; and also to those other Pennell students who are doing their part so that we may have eternal peace and liberty, we the Class of '46 humbly dedicate this edition of the "Whirlpool."

For those who have gone to war
Leaving their loved ones behind,
We pray the things they are fighting for
Are more than alive in each mind.

OUR HEROES

The medals that are sent home or presented to the parents of our boys are not just pins! They stand for courage, fraternity, and humanity. They are something worthy of praise and a great many tears. These young Fellows who will never return didn't have to be pushed into the bloody throes of war. They did what they, themselves, wanted to do, so that we, the younger generation of America, will never again face the tragedy of war.

We can not begin to realize what our boys have gone through. Many return blind; some have returned with their whole minds in a turmoil, unable to remember that they have folks who love them; while still others come back minus an arm or leg. When asked about how it happened, they reply, "It's only a scratch,-not worth mentioning." Our boys aren't ones to boast or brag. They'll say, "We only did our part." Yes, they did do their share and when we hear of all the battle casualties we should bow our heads reverently and utter a silent prayer, asking God to please bring as many back as possible. Those who do not return died not in vain. They shall live on forever in our hearts!

Senior Report

The class of '45 started off their last year with ten students.We had one new member,Payson Tufts,from New Gloucester.William Sanborn and Charles Dingwell didn't come back this year as they were leaving for the Navy early in September.

We elected the following class officers:

President: Irving Verrill
Vice President: Carlton Skilling
Treasurer: Allecia Wilbur
Secretary: Doris McDonald

Alta Goff and James Pollard were chosen for the Student Council.

Mr.and Mrs.Dempsey have been our class advisors.

All three girls; Alta Goff, Allecia Wilbur, and Doris McDonald were out for basketball.

James Pollard,Payson Tufts,and Carlton Skilling played an important part in the boys' basketball team's success this year.

In January we visited Boston for a week-end.Everyone seemed to have a good time and our only regret was that we couldn't stay longer.

Richard Prince left the middle of February to serve Uncle Sam and is now with the Army in Florida.It seems as if a very large space is left in our class since Dick has gone,but we know he is doing an even better job for us where he is.

The class has been quite active this year.We have sponsored a dance, rummage sale,and are now planning the Senior Fair which is to be held in April.

Our four year stay here at Pennell has been a pleasant and enjoyable one which we will never forget.We know our future careers will be more successful because of the knowledge we have gained here.

Junior Report

The Junior class started with eight students. After the first six weeks we had and addition to our class from Scarboro High, Martha White.

Elected the following officers;

President..........Reginald Clark
Vice President.......Pauline Pollard
Secretary............ Priscilla Dunn
Treasure............. Ethel Verrill
Student Council ..... Priscilla Douvielle and Lloyd Wing

After Christmas vacation Barbara Smith left us.

This year just two of our classmates wentout for basketball, Ethel Verrill and Reginald Clark.

We have as our class advisor, Mrs. Dempsey, who has helped us during the year.

The annual Junior Prom was a grand success. We were a bit worried whether the formal idea would appeal to everyone but from the number of evening gowns worn it was evident that the idea was popular.

We attempted a new type of Whirlpool this year which,although it was more work for us, proved much less expensive to publish.

The Junior class in sponsering a prize speaking contest this year hopes to establish a precedent for future classes.

FRESHMEN

Sophomore Report

We started the year of '45 with fifteen of the pupils from last year. Geraldine Achorn from Waldoboro and Lorraine Holt from Deering joined our call and made it seventeen. Later in the school year Viola Hatch transferred from Brooklyn and Barbara Nichols from Greely Institute.

On September 15th, we gave the Freshman Class their greetings to Pennell. We all had fun and the Freshmen were all good sports.

We elected class officers as follows:

President.................... Philip Pollard
Vice President............... Robert Slater
Secretary.................... Beverly Maxwell
Treasurer.................... Clive Hitchcock

We elected to the Student Council the same members as last year:

Clifton Hall
Beatrice Cooper

In December Lorraine Holt replaced Beatrice Cooper.

The girls and boys who co-operated very nicely in basketball this year were: Geraldine Achorn, Lorraine Holt, Beverly Maxwell, Barbara Nichols, Aldine Tripp, Clifford Goff, Clifton Hall, Philip Pollard and Leslie Taylor.

We are happy to say that Philip Pollard and Clifton Hall participated in the tournament.

We have enjoyed this year at Pennell and hope that our class will keep intact during the rest of the school years.

Beverly Maxwell '47

Freshman Report

At the first of the year our class consisted of twenty six green Freshmen. Since then, however, we have lost several members but have gained a few so that how our class numbers twenty-four.

At our first class meeting we elected the following officers;

President............. Kenneth Sanborn
Vice-President........ Patricia Dunn
Treasurer............. Donan irea Reilly
Secretary............. Pauline Stewart
Student Council....... Beverly Douglass...... Wayne Strout

Since then we have had but one meeting at which we voted to have class dues.

Several of the freshmen have taken an active part in the school's various sports.

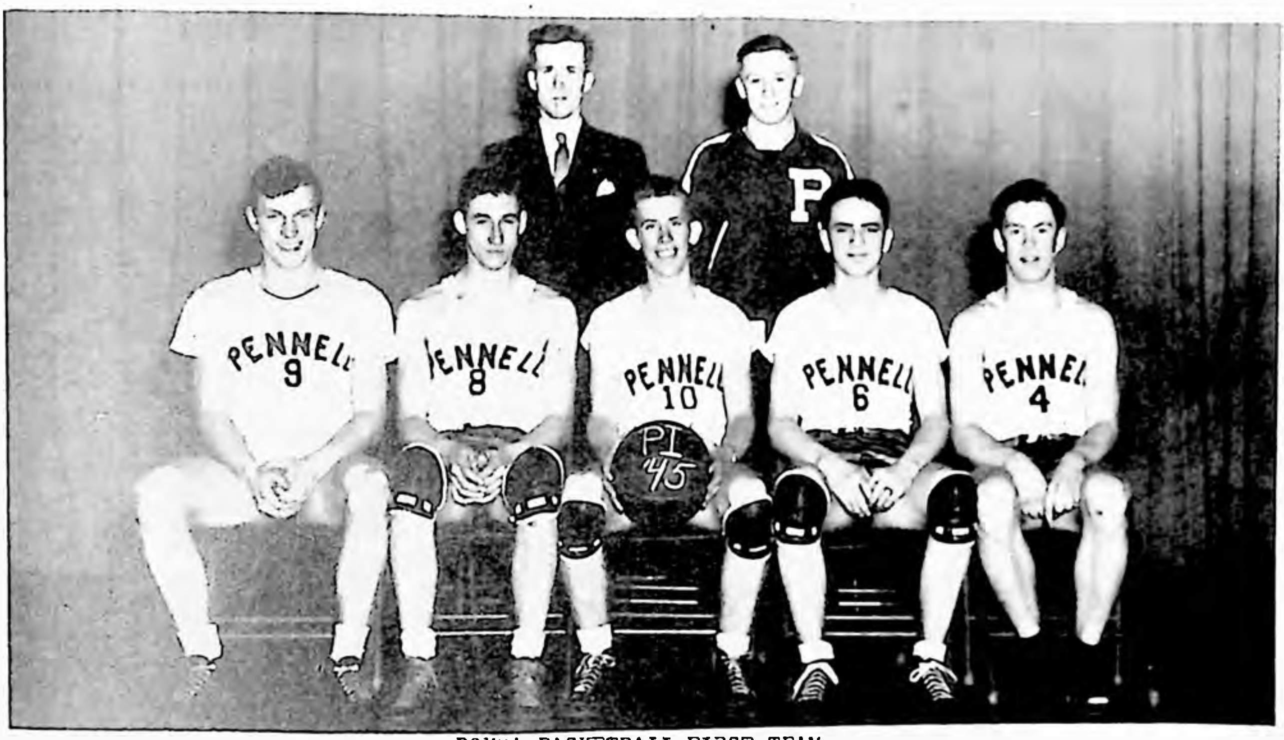

I believe our most memorable event was Freshman Reception. Although the Sophomoreshad us worried for awhile with their threats of dire punishments, we bore the not-too- painful hazing cheerfully even though it was rather uncomfortable, with our faces streaked with lipstick and a few of our boys making amusing spectacles in bright skirts. But I'm sure the good time given us at the reception more than compensated for our previous discomfort.

Teams Picked For Triple C Tournament

Gorham, Greely, Cape, Pennell In Semi-Finals

Gorham High and Greely Institute won their opening round games in the Triple C basketball tournament at South Portland's gym Thursday afternoon, but by widely different margins.

Greely nosed out Windham in a thrill-packed overtime 27 to 25 while Gorham won as it pleased over North Yarmouth 58 to 21.

Cape Elizabeth and Pennell Institute moved into the semi final of the Triple C basketball tournament at South Portland High Thursday night when they stopped Falmouth and Scarboro respectively. The Cape cluster defeated Falmouth by a 34 to 30 margin in a nip and tuck game while Pennell took the measure of Scarboro 36 to 25.

A Year to Remember

Pennell basketeers, led by two sharp shooters, James Pollard and Capt. Carlton Skilling beat all the opposition put up against them in regular season competition with the exception of Oakfield High, who won in an overtime; and Porter High, the last game of the season. Their record was 15 games out of 17. They rolled up 665 points on the scoreboards against their opponents, 481, an average score of 39-28 each game.

Phil Pollard did a great job playing guard and was a consistant threat to the opposing team whether in shooting or in feeding the ball to the forwards.Aiding greatly at the other guard position was Payson Tufts. Cliff Hall made up the front court trio, teaming with J.Pollard and C. Skilling. Cliff Goff, the sixth man on the squad, helped out greatly as the only experienced substitute. The crowds showing up at the gym were the largest in P.I.'s history.

By winning the B division of the Triple C,Pennell was given an even chance to take the championship at the Triple C Tournament.The team went through the finals before losing to Gorham. The excellent support given by the towns people was heartily appreciated by the team.

For the teams fine showing and good record, the members were lauded by the Boy Scouts at a banquet on February 28th; and on March 13th, the towns people gave them a banquet in Portland. With the money alloted to the school from the tournament receipts the first team attended the Eastern Maine Class A Tournament at Brewer.

LITERARY

Duty Called

"Well,goodbye,Mom and Dad." Tim slowly put his arms around his Mother and kissed her lightly.

"How wonderful Dad looks," thought Tim,as they warmly shook hands. Turning again Tim saw his sister and Betsy,the girl he was engaged to, both smiling through tears.Walking across the floor,he put loving arms around them.Tim's heart was beating too fast and a great lump came into his throat."Imagine me a great big ape of a guy almost on the verge of tears." Tim's moist eyes traveled over the group and then like a dream it was all over.He was in a taxi driving away from his home.Looking out of the window,hu saw his family through a mist.They were all smiling because that was the way he wanted it.---------------

Tim lay in his hammock talking softly to himself.

"Well,I'm on my way home,no cuts nor bruises." His thoughts traveled back two years to the day when he said goodbye to his family.Suddenly the roar of guns and screaming whistles brought him back to the present.Too dazed even to think,he automatically dressed and followed his buddies up on deck.There was a deafening explosion.Tim's whole quivering body was covered with oil.Another explosion followed and all the strength in Tim's body slowly seeped put.Then everything went black.

"This must be a dream," thought Tim."Everything is so calm and I don't feel a bit of pain." He lauhed softly to himself,"I'll just pinch myself to see if I am in a dream." He tried to pick his arms up but only one weakly rose.He turned his head towards his right arm and saw only a bandage.The smile swiftly left Tim's face as he pulled the covers down and saw that he had lost his arm.First there was unbelief;then terrible,bitter sobs shook his weakened body until he was blinded by tears.The hot,salty tears continued to stream down his face until a smooth white hand gently stroked his pale face.Opening his eyes he saw Betsy.She too was crying. Betsy,seeing Tim open his eyes,smiled bravely.Then he knew everything was all right.He knew,too,his were not bitter tears but tears of a happiness and joy that words could never express.

Her Son

I came whistling up the walk with a letter for Mrs.Murphy from her son,John,who is somewhere in France.One of her sons,the oldest,had been killed in Italy. I always rang the doorbell when there was a letter for her from the boy.As Mrs.Murphy hurriedly opened the door,I passed her the mail and she picked out John's letter from among the other mail.She read the very interesting letter to me.Thanking her very much,I continued my routine,thinking what a terrible thing it would be to lose her other son and hoping it would never happen...........

It was on a Friday morning several weeks later.The sun was hidden behind the clouds,and it was almost raining.I was on my route with the mail, whistling as usual despite the day.As I neared Mrs.Murphy's door,I stopped abruptly.Just to look at the envelope would make anybody's blood turn cold.It was some war information concerning her son.I knew what it was. At the sound of the bell Mrs.Murphy came to the door quickly.As I passed her the envelope,the smile on her face vanished.With tears in her eyes, she passed the letter back to me.Silently opening the letter,I read: "Dear Mrs.Murphy,your son was killed in Belgium." The poor woman was in hysterics as she dropped everything she had in her hands,including another letter which fell to the floor.I still held the letter from the War Department.Looking at the dates on both the letter that she had dropped and the one from the War Department,I noticed that the son had dated his letter August 2,1944.The War Board claimed that John had been killed July 25,1944.

We Must Dare

We must dare or we shall never find the victory of eternal peace.We must dare to fight and to dream.We must be strong to support our beliefs in democracy and equality among.men.If we have courage to live up to our own ideals,we can help to form a higher standard of living.

Children should be taught to dare to do little things that will help develop a strong character.Sometimes stubbornness in a child,if directed in the right channels may become the worthwhile trait of determination.Let us strive to do the worthwhile things of life and keep our moral standards high.

If we can eliminate juvenile delinquency and keep our minds occupied in worthwhile pursuits,then surely we will dare to check any encroachments of a tyrannical government.

Let us dare to be strong.

Education for Democracy

What is our idea of education? It is a strengthening of the powers of body and mind by correct training and discipline.This teaching was first expounded by the Greeks,who realized and were impressed by its importance.

During the Middle Ages,the monks and clergy were the teachers.But education was reserved mainly for the aristocrats,the wealthy and the religous leaders.The majority,however;was kept in ignorance.

Now we maintain that education can and must be afforded to all children regardless of race or nationality.

The Census Bureau of 1930 showed that over 4% of our population over ten years of age could neither read nor write.

These people must either be educated at public expense or remain illiterate.Many families could or would not educate their children properly.

It is even possible for a citizen to educate himself.In any city,lectures and concerts make their appeal to many and such agencies as the Y.M.C.A. do a great service.Social life plays a part in intellectual development:mingling with intelligent people and studying human relations aids in a way that is not expressed in books.

How does illiteracy effect our national government? In a dictatorship the citizens are less troublesome if they do not know too much.Under such conditions a democracy is endangered.These people are the ones to be led astray by false notions.Perhaps they are influenced to vote wrong and as we all know each person's vote counts as much as his neighbor's.

Education is the bulwark of a strong democracy.

Democracy

Democracy ! All over the United States there is a growing demand for a better government. Much outcry is for cheaper government that taxes may be reduced. Some citizens are anxious to take a more active part in solving problems concerning unemployment and old-age insurance. On the other hand, there are those who are reluctant to have the government assume any new obligations or acquire broader control.

During the time of the spoils system,when a public office was given as a reward for service corruption took place.The question was how to overcome it ? The answer came when Congress sanctioned the Civil-Service Commission, which requires an examination before any person may hold government positions.

Today we have initiative and referendum which gives each citizen an opportunity to vote on important questions.

Are not the institutions of a democracy ever changing rather than being fixed ? This is well.Otherwise we might dispair of having a government catch up with the rapidly changing institutions of our economic life.

The greatest need is for more interest in our government.Citizens must be prepared to vote and hold office. They must strive to become better educated that our democracy will never fail.

Americanism in Education
(Extracts)

The American schools are the largest and most important social enterprise in which all the people are engaged.The success of this great undertaking demands that all forces of the community,-citizens,parents, and teachers,work together with understanding and appreciation of the aims and achievements of the school.......

The American public school system is the product of community and purpose.In no other country in the world do the people themselves have so much voice in the conduct of the schools.The American people are eager and willing to work with teachers and school officers in the improvement of educational opportunity.Through the schools the people prepare their children for the fullest measure of service and happiness. Through education the people determine the character of the community and the state.To be effective,the educational process must be understood.It must be constantly renewed and redirected by the people themselves working together through their schools.......

Education is one of the main things which America must have in order to face the future as a free and prospering nation.The people and the government must work harder in order to keep up and have better schools than the European countries........

Education is about the only thing which holds the public confidence in a great crisis.During the Civil War the governers kept the school funds safe in both the North and South.Schools were kept running regularly...........

The nearer the American system of education reaches its ultimate goals the sooner the world will see true Americanism in action.

No Substitute,Please

We'll find substitutes for butter
And we'll gladly eat less meat;
We'll wear synthetic rubbers
Ersatz rubber on our feet.

We'll gladly give up chewing gum
And candy,cars,and such.
We'll ease up on our play and fun
They won't be missed----not much.

But there's one thing we'll hold on to
Whether top-kick or G.I.
The school we've pledged our hearts to,
That's the real thing----that's P.I.

BOOK REPORT

I. Author- Ernest Hemingway

a) Something about his life-

Mr. Hemingway was born in 1898. He is known as an American journalist, novelist and short story writer. He entered the World War as a volunteer in an American ambulance unit, serving with the French Army and later with the Italian Arditi. After the war, Mr. Hemingway served as a European correspondent for the "Toronto Star." He is the author of "The Fifth column", "To have And Have Not." "For Whom The Bell Tolls" was written in 1940.

II. Name of Book- "For Whom The Bell Tolls"

III. Plot-

Robert Jordan lay on the pine needled floor of a forest, rehearsing the importance of the task for which he was appointed. Suddenly he was brought back to the present by an old man, Anselmo, who was to be his guide to the bridge.

Swiftly they descended the hill to view the bridge that was so essential to the attack by the British. Both were silent for a while because Jordan was again recalling his conversation with Golz- the attack by the English planes that was to be his signal to blow the bridge.

After the viewing, Anselmo led Jordan to a hidden camp in the mountains where he met Pilar, Pablo and a beautiful Spanish girl, Maria, who had fortunately escaped from the Fascists and joined the band.

For three days Jordan planned the attack and discussed the troop movements with Pablo who appeared very enthusatic to learn of the American's duty. During this time Maria helped Pilar with the meals and the work that had to be done in the cave. When she met Jordan, she fell in love with him and he with her.

On the fourth day, the attack came and Robert Jordan assisted by Anselmo prepared the dynmite and blew the bridge. After the explosion, Jordan discovered that a large piece of steel had killed his faithful helper.

Meanwhile, a group of Fascists lead by Pablo, attacked the small band of mountaineers but only two of the band was killed.

When Pablo saw Anselmo's body, he realized his mistake of betraying his friends and asked to rejoin their band; but only after a promise was he accepted.

Maria and Jordan were reunited after his duty was performed. They were on their way to Madrid with Pilar and Pablo when the bay horse on which Jordan was riding, stumbled and broke the American's left leg. He begged them to leave him but Maria refused until he insisted that she leave him.

Robert Jordan lay with his back against a tree with his machine gun beside him waiting for the Fascist officer who had been following them, to come. Finally the Lieutenant's thin, serious face was seen. Jordan reached for his gun just as the officer reached the sunlit place where the first trees of the pine forest joined the green slope of the meadow- just twenty feet from where Robert Jordan lay.

IV. Criticism-

I especially liked the story because of the unique way in which Ernest Hemingway portrayed each character. The story begins in the middle of a turmoil, which arouses the readers' interest and encourages him to continue reading to the last page.

Mr. I Know All The P's and Q's

Who Knows?.......

Whom the letters are from that Priscilla Dunn "swoons" over?
Whom Pussy Douvielle is interested in now?
Where Olive Thompson goes in Portland and why she isn't in school the following day?

Unknown?.......

Why Ethel Verrill stays at Phyllis Knight's so much?
Whether or not Donnie Reilly is still going with Arthur Guoin?

Rumored?.......

That Beverly Maxwell is supposed to be going steady?
That Pauline Pollard swoons over Payson Tufts?
That Doris McDonald had a good time in Augusta?

Flash!!.......

Poor Van thinks that Phyllis Knight is true to him (she's true to so many)!!
Eleanor H., Donnie R., and Bea C. ought to find a reason for sitting at the boys' table at lunch!
Lorraine Hagar is interested in the State House at Augusta!

Why?.......

Carlton Skilling goes to all the dances stag now?
Allecia Wilbur really can't form an interest in anything but the Senior Class?
Llöyd Wing doesn't see that girl anymore?
Karl Libby quit going with Marguerite Collins (or vice versa)?

What?.......

June Jordan and June Small asked Ouija?
Is the reason Don Strout comes to school every day now?
Charlie Parker says in those letters to Beverly Douglass?

How It Happens?.......

That Cliff and Viola never fight?
That Abbie Lunn is never seen with "Sadie?"
That Don Cooper doesn't go with any of the Pennell girls?
That Red Verrill doesn't take Lorraine Holt anywhere anymore?
That Jimmy Pollard gets mad so easily?

The Birdie Said!.......

That Wayne Strout must wait until another new girl comes for a new flame!
That Cliff Hall and Phil Pollard were women haters!
That Gerry Achorn enjoys a trip home occasionally!
That Ruth Jenkins does a lot of swooning over Herbie Douglass!
That Martha says, "Gee, Donnie's wonderful," all the time!
That Mrs.Dempsey always gives an easy test!
That Mr.Dempsey is going to be teased in return sometime soon!!

The Hottest News!.......

Patricia Dunn and Ralph White have mutual interests!
Pauline Stewart is on the loose again.Watch your step,Henry!
Robert Hatch is trying to lose weight riding his bike!
Gordon Kimball has a picture of the girl in Yarmouth!

# Anyone knowing the answer to these questions,please notify:
Mr. P's and Q's.....

Pussy in Manual Arts Class was pounding a nail into a board,but she had the head of the nail against the boardand was hammering the point. Finally she threw the nail down in disgustand said:"Bah! Idiots! They made this nail with the head at the wrong end."
Pauline P. overhearing her laughed and said,"It's you that is the idiot. That nail was made for the other side of the board."

Jokes

Priscilla Dunn: "Well, of all the nerve," she said as she slapped his face. "Don't ever try to kiss me again."
Ken S. "All right," he replied meekly. "If thats the way you feel about it get off my lap."

Holding the lovely creature close to him, he whispered softly in her shell-like ear: "Darling, I love you as no one ever loved you before."
"I can't see much difference," she replied.

Stout lady: "Oh, I heard something snap. It was my new girdle."
Bright son: "That's all right, that salesman said it reduces the hips and busts.

Olive T. "Beatrice is false to our club."
Donnie R. "Why so?"
Olive T. "Well, here we are, selling kisses for charity and she's off in the corner bootlegging."

Principal: "Give a concrete example of municipal control."
Cliff G. "A paved street."

Mr. Dempsey: "If coal is $10 a ton, how many tons would I get for $50?"
Lloyd: "Four tons."
Mr. Dempsey: "That's wrong."
Lloyd: "I know it, but they get away with it just the same."

Carlton S. "Alas, 'tis dark without."
Don S. "Without what?"
Carlton S. "Without a light, fool!"

Neal L. "How did you break your leg?"
Don C. "I threw a cigarette into a manhole and stepped on it."

Sign on a slot machine:
"In case of an air raid, crawl under this machine. It has never been hit."

P.P. "Has anyone ever told you how wonderful you are?"
Pussy D. "No-o-o"
P.P. "Then where did you get the idea?"

Judge: "You are charged with throwing your mother-in-law out of the window."
The Accused: "I did it without thinking, your honor."
Judge: "Didn't you even think how dangerous it might have been for anyone passing at the time."

Father: "Junior, would you like to hear a little story?"
Five year old Junior: "Sure pop, but keep it clean, the old lady might hear you."

Mrs. Newlywed: "Darling, will you lend me $20, and only give me half of it? Then I'll owe you $10 and you will owe me $10 and we'll be even."

"Do you like my new hat? I earned it myself."
"How?"
"I cut down on my husbands lunch and cigarette money."

Hubby: "I guess you're pretty sore because I came home with this black eye?"
Wifey: "Oh, no, not at all. When you came home you didn't have that black eye."

Olive T. "I'm sorry I couldn't come to your party last night."
Bea C. "Dear me! Weren't you there?"
Olive T. "Oh, why, of course I was! How stupid of me! I must have forgotten!

James Pollard (in Boston): Conductor, which end do I get off at?
Conductor: Never mind, Bud, both ends stop.
